DAILY KEPUBLICAN. HAMSHER & CALHOUN, Prop're DECATUR ILLINOIS.

Enteredist, the Post Office at Decatur, Illinoi

MONDAY EVE., AUG. 10, 1891.

Defeating the Republicans. f State in Kansas and who has hereto fore believed that it was right and prac-tical to make the liquor question a party question has changed his opinion about it. He now says:

it. He now says:

The 'test'is becoming very apparent that the average political prohibitionist has a stronger desire to smash the Hepublican party than to secure prohibition. I have supported prohibition from the time it was submitted to the people and when the support of it cost me every dollar I had on earth, besides losing me political and personal friendship that Thave never ceased regretting. I am as earnest and zealous for the success of the list as any one can be regardless of sneerest at politicians. I am not ushamed that I am a Republican and a politician, on that I am opposed to any further political indorsement of prohibition. I wish to see it a success hand in hand while Republican victory, but if one must go down to defeat I do not wish that one to be my party. I am honest in what I say, suitafied that in the near future you and others who are now urging prohibition as a political measure, will see that its life and success depending on removing it from politics. I make the preciotion now that one of the parties in this state will again indorse prohibition.

These views, as far as they go, appear priect and reasonable, but Mr. Higgins might have made some strong illustra tions in support of his statement that the political prohibitionist has r desire to smash the Republica:

party than to secure prchibition.' This is well demonstrated in the facthat that party first told the people that the dissection, whether we should have a protective tariff or free trade amounts nothing; that the country would prosper as well under the one as under the other system. This argument was unde to aid them in preselyting in the runks of those who believed in a protec ive tariff and were affiliating with the Republican party on that account. Upor covering that men, with few exceplions, were not willing to regard thes questions as lightly as these third party candidates hoped, the probibition party thangod its tention and in its next plat orm declared in favor of a free trade tariff. This brought it in close harmon with the Domooratic party, and ever Prohibition speaker made it a point always to arraign the protective principle advocated by the Republicans. This they did in the campaigns of 1888 and

And now Mrs. Helen Gougar, a leader in that party, announces that she will devote her entire energy to preaching against protection. As the question of tariff will be the loading issue in the coming campaign, and as this leading rohibitionist has accepted it as such the logical result will be that her advice if acted upon, will cause those who be lieve that her teaching is correct to vote ins struight Democratic ticket in order to establish the system she argues would be so beneficial to the people. The point has evidently been reached when the leaders of the third party believe that the best way to defeat the Republi can party is to vote the Democratic ticket, and they are about right. To say the least it is the most honorable method to put the Democrats in power the third party has yot adopted, and gives ever protectionist fair notice that he had bet ter get back to the Republican party.

Could Not be Worse.

The Chicago Tribune, of Saturday, 11 a editorial, intended to shield itself and its notions from the fury about to be raised about its ears on account of its toolish and ill advised publication of a poolal from Washington to the New ork Herald which purports to give Senator Blackburn's version of the old story upon, and which puts Mr.Blaine in a very anenviable attitude, it says that "the depression in business resulting from the reak-down of the fiat money system of Argentina has been so great as to make difficult to tell just what the McKinley bill has done." This is probably as lame an effort to detract from the benefits, the people are freely admitting that bill has brought the country as could be conjured up. That a financial crisis in the Argentine Republic with a total of only 3,000,000 people, in an area of 1,125,080 quare miles—being 20 times the size of Illinois, with about the same number o nhabitants-from which we buy anually only about $6,000,000 worth of roducts and to which we sell annually nly about $8,000,000 worth of our preducts is utterly absurd and only proves to what rediculous extremes the free rade journals will resort, rather than adnit that their theories about the offects of the McKinley tariff law were wrong ir lmost every particular.

not be worse.

THE New York Post only occasionally ets on the right side of a national ques tion. It has done this when it says, that Ingalls had better retire the venerable gag that there are one million of menuble to work who cannot get work. The Post save there is not the elightest reason to believe that there are anywhere near million of tramps and those who are tramps are not looking for work and would not work if any one offered then work. That farmers all over the north west want laborers they cannot get while at the same time gange of trampe are strolling through the country at the expense of the farmers who would gladly employ them. It concludes that the average tramp is a tramp not because he work under any circumstances. These are facts known to every employer of labor, and their admission by the free-trade Post is commendable at a time when

A Flying Trip.
The Wabash kindly tendered a free ride to all Decatur employes of the road who desired to attend the funeral of the late Frank P. Clark, the engineer, who met his death in the collision at Homer. Nearly 200 Decatar employes left on the special train Sunday morning, and war resent at the funeral, which was one of the largest ever witnessed at the capital. On the return to Decatur, Engineer Donldson, with engine 189, covered the distance of 39 miles in 44 minutes. There were many reilroad men on the train who never traveled so rapidly, before in their lives. The train got in before the de-parture of No 11 for the west.
